Putting YOU in control of SCHOOL SAFETY

The SSOCC has three principles at the root of all our trainings. We work to ensure that each training we deliver for schools is:

- Realistic (useful)
- Retainable (understandable)
- Reasonable (usable)

“The trainings you provided have been outstanding. You truly are a service organization.”

— Tom Whitmore, Superintendent
Bickleton School District

“I took away strategies I can easily incorporate into my own crisis response plan. Multiple crisis simulations provided the opportunity for hands-on practice, which gave me a new level of confidence in my ability to clearly deliver concise information in a crisis situation.”

— Jessica Morgan, Communications Director
Sunnyside School District

Critical mental preparation to do so effectively by using the simple ACT3 model, core safety basics and a final hands-on tabletop scenario. (Length: 1 hour)

See Something? Say Something!
This is a very practical and interactive training for students that goes beyond the buzz phrase “See something, say something” and puts it to use. We show students how to apply this culture and way of thinking not only into their own lives, but throughout their entire school! (Length: 1 hour)

Crisis Communication
Crisis Communication shows you how to effectively communicate with other people during a crisis, whether you are alone or are part of a team. We address actual means of communication such as intercom phones, radios, and cell phones, along with others. Throughout this training we will focus on the ABCs of communication as a foundation for your crisis messages. (Length: 2 hours)

Threat Defense
Learn threat defense skills by actually doing them. This training builds on the basic concepts of Run-Hide-Fight to deliver in-the-moment skills that will protect you and others from a variety of active threats, including casualty attacks. Using activities incorporating actual incidents of school violence, participants will gain skills by practicing them in a safe, controlled environment. (Length: 3 hours)

Cyber Safety
This training will educate school staff in guiding children in all aspects of digital citizenship and cyber safety across a broad range of digital media, from computers to smart phones. Topics include social media, dangerous apps, sexting and extortion, cyberbullying, what to post and what not to post, cyber safety, and how to cultivate and protect a lifetime digital identity. Suitable for a train the trainer model, this presentation will provide educators with ready-to-go resources and a slideshow to use with their own students. (Length: 3 hours)
